VOLUME XXIII.—NO. 18.

LOUISVILLE, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1909.

PRICE FIVE CENTS.

ARE DEMORALIZED.

Louisville Police and Firemen in Present Municipal Campaign Are Plunged in Politics Up to the Neck and Then Some.

Gentleman Jim Grinstead Is Only a Cog in the Republican Machine and Must Therefore Do the Bidding of Its Managers.

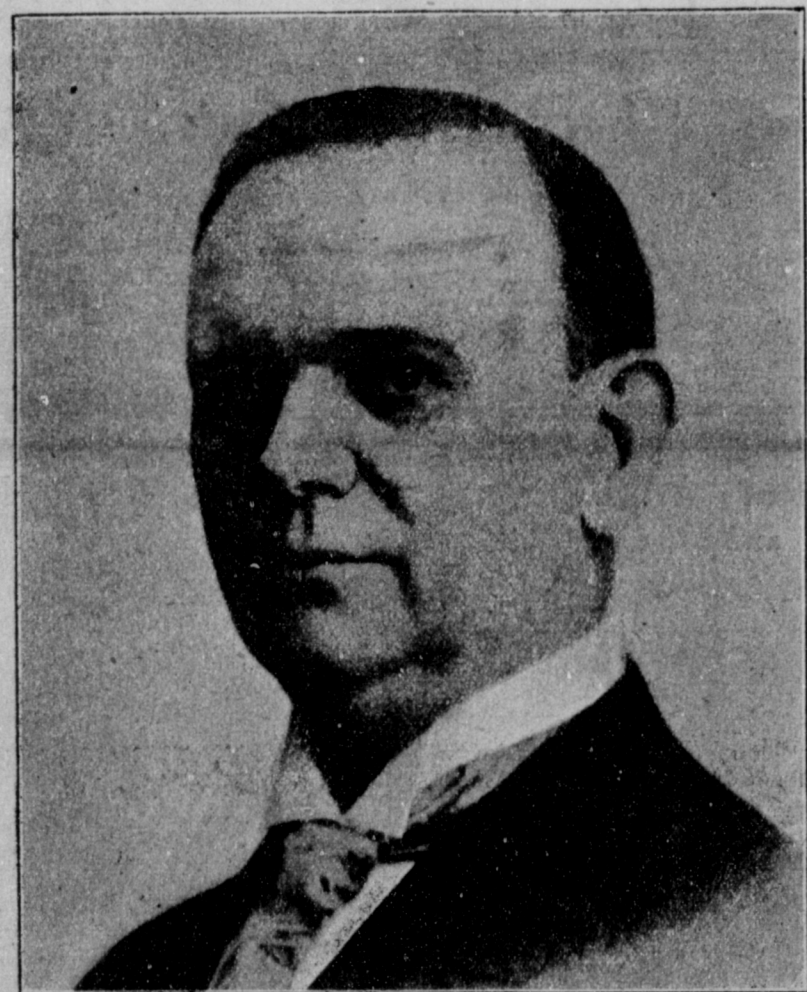

The officers of the Louisville police force are not only demoralized but desperate. They seem to be utterly lacking in tact, and the discipline of the subordinates amounts to nothing. Burglaries go unchecked. Pickpockets are working in churches, and a few days ago a lady relative of a man prominently connected with the police department had her purse stolen while kneeling in devotion in a church adjacent to her home. The tactics of Foster, Luchsing and Pfau have emboldened the subordinate members of the department to make spectacles of themselves.

Yet the administration and its organs say the police and firemen are out of politics. That is as true as anything else that ever appears in the Post. During the week half a dozen fire Captains have been reduced and shifted to other scenes. Why? Because they refused to support Grinstead and to get others to support him they have been reduced to the ranks. That is a sample of reform. Again! The police were out of politics. Only a few nights ago

$25,000 for alleged slanderous statements. The policeman who furnished the information upon which the Post based its story is the same officer who was recently summoned by court to show why he had registered before taking out naturalization papers.

Why are so many motormen and conductors in the employment of the Louisville Railway Company for W. O. Head as against Grinstead? Because of the impudence of negro passengers on the street cars. That is the reason. Only this week Capt. Boone Jameson told a motorman, "If we don't win this election for Grinstead we intend to steal it." Has he ever had any practice in theft, or is that an idle boast? Has Jameson a record to be proud of? People laugh when they read those five propositions at the head of the Post's editorial column. They might be reduced to one: "Give us this day the city printing and deliver our competitors to the devil."

It is well to bear all these things in mind when you go to the polls next Tuesday. Go early if possible.

HON. WILLIAM O. HEAD.

The People of Louisville Should Elect Him Mayor Tuesday.

Capt. Julius Luchsing, of the Fifth district, called all his men off their beats at 2:30 o'clock a. m. While the police were corralled in the station house the Shelby street branch of the Public Library was wrecked by vandals. From 1 o'clock until 5:30 o'clock in the morning Capt. Luchsing and Patrolmen Ennis and Smyser and two negroes, Pearl Broadus and John Tyler, were distributing copies of the Louisville Evening Post that contained a copy of Marshall Bullitt's latest speech. They used a police automobile in their work, and the other police had been called in, so that none would see or suspect Luchsing, Ennis, Smyser and their negro friends. Foster has been very officious this week in arresting Democratic workers on the charge of loitering, and Pfau is carrying intimidation to the extreme.

What do the people think of this demoralization in police and fire circles? What will the Board of Public Safety do to Louisville in the way of increasing insurance rates? How can Mayor Grinstead help himself in event of his eligibility from reappointing men like these? Mr. Grinstead is a courteous gentleman, a good grocer and a man of good character. When it comes to his political record it is a record of machine politics and nothing else. He is the type of man the machine has picked out, groomed and put forward to use as a medium in carrying out its bidding. In politics he has always followed the lines of least resistance, simply getting in the swim and drifting with the current. He has never breathed any political atmosphere except the atmosphere of machine politics. He is part of the machine, and he embodies the machine idea. His mind does not operate along any other lines. It would never do to accuse Mr. Grinstead of being an ingrate, but he would be one of the biggest ingrates that ever lived if he did not, in the event of his election, take orders from the Louisville Post and reappoint Foster, Pfau and Luchsing.

Foster was intoxicated and wandering through the corridors of the City Hall, right under the eyes of the Board of Public Safety, on Friday of last week.

H. V. Wain is using the Post for

There is no need for rancor or ill-feeling, but you must remember that you are an American citizen and a sovereign in your own right. You must remember, too, that the Post will make as many arrests as possible early in the morning in order to scare Democratic voters away. Do not let threats or intimidation deter you from exercising your great American privilege. Vote for the man of your choice. If you want Grinstead, negro rule and Philippine Foster vote under the log cabin. If you want white supremacy, good government and W. O. Head put your stamp under the rooster.

FAITHFUL SERVANT

Of God and Man Called to His Eternal Rest.

James T. Campbell, for more than twenty-five years President of the Particular Council of the St. Vincent de Paul Society of this city, died at his home, 1233 West Jefferson street, at 5:15 o'clock Sunday morning. The news was flashed over the city in less time than it takes to tell it, and in every parish that has a conference of the St. Vincent de Paul Society prayers were offered at all the masses for the repose of his soul. Mr. Campbell was held in high esteem and all day and night Sunday and Monday his residence was visited by a constant stream of visitors.

Mr. Campbell was born in Louisville in 1837 and never lived anywhere else and had never been employed by one firm. When he was seventeen years old he was given employment by the wholesale drug firm of R. A. Robinson Company, and many years later, when that firm was merged with the Robinson-Pettit Company, Mr. Campbell remained with the firm. Thus for fifty-six years he occupied a position of responsibility with one firm, a record probably never equaled in Louisville. He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Misses Anna and Minnie Campbell.

The funeral took place from the Cathedral of the Assumption on Tuesday morning. The solemn mass of requiem was celebrated by the Rev. Father P. M. J. Rock, for more than thirty years a friend of the deceased. The sanctuary was filled with priests, who had known and admired Mr. Campbell for his indefatigable work with the St. Vincent de Paul Society. Mr. Campbell was also a member of the Knights of Columbus and members of that body were much in evidence at the funeral.

The pall-bearers were John J. Slattery, Thomas Peely, Edward McDonogh, James McBride, John A. Doyle, C. W. Decker, Jeremiah Bacon, Thomas K. Hines, S. M. Raffo, John Mulloy, E. J. O'Brien and Daniel J. Duane.

LITTLE LAPSE

Of Memory Cause Local Irishmen to Refresh Others.

On Tuesday of last week the Courier-Journal told in alleged detail the story of the sale of the Norvin Green homestead, at Second street and Broadway. It is possible that some part of the Courier-Journal's story is true, but it is only a possibility. For instance it says: "Whitstone, the great English architect, who built the Galt House and other magnificent Louisville residences, constructed the Green house."

The elder citizens of Louisville laughed when they read that story, and wondered what inexcusable break the Courier-Journal would make next.

Henry Whitstone was born at Ennis, County Clare, Ireland. He was intensely an Irish Nationalist in feeling. He built the Galt House, the Green house, the Henry Newcomb house, now occupied by the Xaverian Brothers, the Victor Newcomb house on Fourth street, south of Oak, and other public and private homes. He built no cheap jobs. Later he became President of the Louisville Gas Company.

One night some years ago there was an English banquet in Louisville. The late Dr. E. R. Palmer toasted Mr. Whitstone as an Englishman. The late Patrick Bannon, who was then prominent in local affairs, called Dr. Palmer to task. Next day Mr. Palmer called on Mr. Whitstone to ask if he were not an Englishman.

"Not I am an Irishman! Irish to the backbone, and my ancestors before me as far as I can trace." That settled it with Dr. Palmer. Possibly the Courier-Journal has forgotten it, but John J. Slattery, President of the Todd-Donigan Iron Company; Charles White, who superintended the carpenter work at the Galt House, and Barney Campbell, Sr., who superintended many jobs of plastering for Mr. Whitstone, have not forgotten it. The Irish are a little touchy on such lapses of memory.

COUNTY BOARD

Adopts Resolutions On Bishop's Death and Plans Initiation.

The County Board, Ancient Order of Hibernians, held its regular quarterly meeting at Bertrand Hall on Friday night of last week. It was decided to hold a general initiation at that hall on the afternoon of the third Sunday in December. Division 4's degree team will exemplify the ritual.

George J. Butler, State President; P. J. Welsh, County President; John H. Hennessy, Thomas Keenan, Jr., and D. J. Coleman, who constituted a committee to draft resolutions on the death of Bishop McCloskey, made the following report: "Whereas, It has pleased Divine Providence to remove from our midst our beloved Bishop, the Right Rev. William George McCloskey, who for more than forty years showed admirable zeal and judgment in the performance of the onerous and laborious duties of his high office; be it

"Resolved, That we, the committee of the County Board of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of Jefferson county, as practical Catholics do hereby express our deepest regret at the great loss sustained by the Catholics of this diocese and the community at large. Bishop McCloskey by his exemplary life and rare executive ability has endeared himself to men of all creeds and nationalities, and emulated in a high degree the shining example of the great and pious men who had preceded him as Bishop of Louisville. May his soul rest in peace."

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT.

Lawrence Worland, of the Sutcliffe Company, met with a distressing accident on Friday night of last week. During the windstorm he attempted to close a window. The glass broke and a particle entered one of his eyes, destroying the sight. At first it was feared that the other eye had also been impaired, but after the injured member had been removed the sight of the other eye was restored. There are few young men in Louisville more popular than Mr. Worland, and his friends sympathize with him in his misfortune.

SMITH-CASPER.

Invitations were received in Louisville to attend the wedding of Miss Agnes Smith and Dr. William Casper, both of Cannellton, Ind. The wedding was solemnized at St. Michael's church on Wednesday. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Smith. The groom is a rising young physician and is a brother of Dr. Michael and L. P. Casper, of Louisville.

Tells of Affairs in Parliament and the Approaching Crisis.

IRELAND'S GREAT OPPORTUNITY

Hon. T. P. O'Connor, one of Hon. John E. Redmond's ablest lieutenants in the Irish party in the British House of Commons, arrived in New York City last Friday and since then has been conducting a whirlwind campaign in behalf of his colleagues in the Eastern States. Wherever he has spoken thousands of dollars have been pledged to help the Irish cause along, and when Mr. O'Connor returns to London he will carry material as well as moral aid to Mr. Redmond and his cohorts.

Last Friday evening Mr. O'Connor was tendered a reception at the Hoffman House by the Irish-Americans of New York. His first formal address was made in Tremont Temple at Boston on Monday night. That vast edifice overflowed with enthusiastic Irish-Americans, and at the conclusion of Mr. O'Connor's address those present gave in cash or pledges $10,000. On Tuesday night he spoke in Lowell, and in Orange, N. J., on Friday night. Tomorrow night he will address a mass meeting at the Lyric Theater, New York City. Next Tuesday he will speak in Chicago and will close his tour with addresses in Philadelphia on Thursday and Friday evening.

While Mr. O'Connor is a versatile speaker, all of his addresses have had the same import, the necessity for the Irish in America to aid the Irish members of Parliament in the present crisis. In his addresses Mr. O'Connor explains that members of the British Parliament serve without pay from the Government. More than three-fourths of the eighty-one members of the Irish party are without means, or rather have given up their ordinary means of livelihood to fight the battles of their countrymen in London. All are able, intelligent men. They are giving their best years to fight that Ireland may become a nation once again. These patriots must be supported. They have families to support, and it is a duty of every son of Erin to aid them materially and morally.

Mr. O'Connor was not only been an eyewitness, but a partaker of the recent strenuous times in the House of Commons and knows whereof he speaks. In his address in Boston he said:

"I return to the conviction which I have steadily held except for a few days, when the whole tide seemed going one way, that the probability still points to the acceptance of the budget by the House of Lords. Already I believe I see signs of blue funk in those exalted circles; already you hear less talk of the right of the Lords to reject the budget, or if the right be claimed, there is a strong word of warning or of doubt as to the wisdom of exercising the right. The danger is imminent. It is that the House of Lords will pass the budget; that the Government will then be satisfied, and will make the attempt to live through another year or two of office."

"This is the reason of the tone which Mr. Redmond has taken up during his recent successful tour of speech-making in the English cities. He has declared his strong opinion that the Government will be ill-advised if they do not have an early general election, whether the budget be accepted or not. He even went the length of saying that he and his party would do their best to force the Government to a dissolution."

"It is needless to say where the Irish party stands in this controversy. One of the curiosities of the present struggle is the way in which Ireland suddenly has been remembered by the English politicians, especially of the Unionist side. Ireland has a knack of suddenly bobbing up like a cork when everybody has agreed to forget it. Redmond's manifesto to the Irish people of America and the friends of Ireland in all races has acted for the moment as the necessary reminder of Ireland's continued and persistent existence. His frank avowal that the House of Lords is the only obstacle to home rule is a fact so palpable that its restatement ought not to be regarded as anything extraordinary."

"But Redmond's message has been received with a howl partly of delight and partly of apprehension by the Unionist newspapers throughout England. All Unionists are solemnly adjured to pay attention to the statement; are appealed to in every tone to rally round the House of Lords as the one bulwark of the empire against Irish treason, and so on. What is perhaps more remarkable and certainly more satisfactory is that the Liberal party leaders have taken the cue given by Redmond quite as readily. Within a few hours of its appearance Winston Churchill, making a speech at the National Liberal Club, the headquarters of militant Liberalism, went out of his way to call for the bestowal on Ireland of the same generous measure of self-government as had been attended with such magnificent results in the Transvaal.

"At the same moment Chief Secretary Birrell, speaking among his constituents in Bristol, declared amid loud Liberal cheers that the time had come when Ireland should be allowed to manage her own affairs."

MATRONS MOURNED.

Two Estimable Ladies Have Entered Into Eternal Rest.

Louisville lost two of its most exemplary Catholic ladies on Thursday morning. Mrs. Rose E. Kelly, formerly Miss Rose Henley, and the widow of the late Thomas Kelly, died at the home of her mother, Mrs. Rose Henley, 345 North Twenty-sixth street. She is survived by her mother, several young children and a brother and sister, Thomas and Miss Katie Henley. The funeral will take place from St. Cecilia's church at 9 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Kelly took an active interest in Irish affairs and for several years was a member of the Ladies' Auxiliary, A. O. H.

On Thursday morning also Mrs. Mamie Kustes died at the family residence in Highland Park. She was thirty-seven years old and was the wife of Frank Kustes. The deceased was a devout member of St. Leo's congregation, and her funeral will take place from St. Leo's church at 8:45 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Kustes will be sadly missed by the other workers in behalf of St. Leo's young and growing parish.

RABBI'S ADVICE.

Tells Christians To Mind Strictly to Their Own Affairs.

Christian attempts at evangelism among the Jews were severely criticized last Saturday in Chicago by Rabbi Tobias Schanfarber. In his address he mentioned the recent incorporation of the Chicago Gospel Mission to the Jews, the avowed purpose of which is to convert Hebrews on a larger scale than ever before attempted. His point seems to be well taken. He said in part: "It would redound much more to the glory of the church if it first would convert its own unchristian Christians to Christianity. The Jew is by no means perfect in morality, but certainly statistics show that proportionally he has fewer criminals than has Christianity. It is greatly to be regretted that the principal of one of our public schools is one of the incorporators of the Chicago Gospel Mission to the Jews. It is just barely possible that a public school teacher who is eager for the soul of the Jew will allow that bias to influence him in his attitude toward the children of his school."

"The Jew has all he can attend to if he will convert his own people to Judaism, and the Christian has all that he can attend to if he will convert his own people to Christianity. Therefore we say to the Christian, convert your own and let Jews alone."

IRISH LEGEND.

Is Responsible For Popularity of Horseshoe as a Charm.

Why is an old horseshoe supposed to bring luck to the owner if hung in the hall or behind the door? Horseshoes were at one time nailed up as a protection against witches. Many houses in the West End of London have one of these emblems of superstition on the threshold, and in Monmouth street there were seventeen in 1813 and seven so late as 1885. Lord Nelson had a horseshoe nailed to the mast of his ship Victory and our forefathers loved to nail one on their house door.

St. Dunstan was an Irishman, not an Englishman, as the Britishers now claim. He was recognized as the best blacksmith in what was then the kingdom of Kerry. He had his forge on the Bay of Dingle, and people from all over Ireland came to have their horses shod and to drink in wisdom from the "Kerry Gow." The legend has it that the devil was among the pilgrims to the forge of St. Dunstan. He asked the Dingle blacksmith to shoe his single hoof.

Knowing how his customer was, St. Dunstan tied him tightly to the wall and proceeded with his job, but purposely put the devil into so much pain that he roared for mercy. It was not until he promised that he would never again enter a place where he saw a horseshoe displayed that St. Dunstan would release his captive.

DIOCESAN CENTENARIES.

In 1908 Louisville, New York, Boston and Philadelphia celebrated their diocesan centenaries. Charleston, S. C., will come next, but it is eleven years off, 1920. A year later Cincinnati will celebrate her centenary. In 1926 St. Louis will celebrate. Then in order will come Detroit in 1933, Indianapolis in 1934 and Nashville in 1937.

HONOR ST. JOAN.

A new parish has been formed in Chicago dedicated to the Blessed Virgin of Arc. The church will cost $50,000 when completed. It is the first church in the United States, if not in the world, dedicated to the heroine of France.

CORNERSTONE

Of the New Church of St. George Will Be Blessed Tomorrow Afternoon by the Very Rev. Vicar General and Administrator.

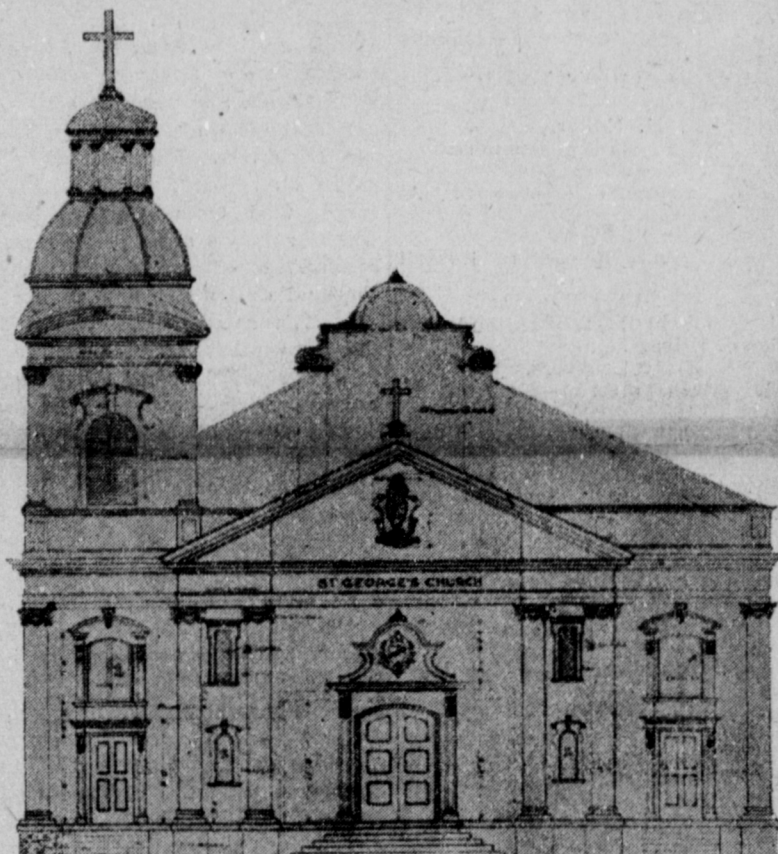

Rapid Growth of Parish Made Larger House of Worship Necessary—Flourishing School and Splendid Congregation.

The cornerstone of the new Church of St. George, on Eighteenth street and Magnolia avenue, will be blessed at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The Very Rev. Father Cronin, Vicar General and Administrator of the diocese, will officiate, and will be assisted by many local clergymen. The sermon will be preached by the Rev. Dr. George W. Schumann.

The new church will be of the renaissance style of architecture, and will be built of brick and trimmed in stone. It will be 123 feet long and sixty-five feet broad. The estimated cost is $25,000. The Rev. Father George Weiss, pastor of St. George's, has been wonderfully successful in his work. In 1897 the late Bishop McCloskey assigned to Father Weiss the task of organizing a parish in the North End of Maryland. The young pastor went to work valiantly, although he found only twelve Catholic families in his parish at that time. He rented a cottage and celebrated

It mattered not whether he was telling of Londonderry, describing the majestic cliffs of Donegal or dilating on that "Eden of the West, ever fair Killarney." Not only were the Irish members of Mackin interested, but those of German descent as well, when he told of the war scare in England and how disappointed the British were when they learned that Americans would not aid England in a war against Germany. They did not know that the Germans and the Irish constituted the bulk of American citizenship; that they practically own America.

Judge O'Doherty told of the improved conditions in Ireland and of the social unrest in England, and made a graphic explanation of the imminent disaster hanging over the present Government of England should the House of Lords reject the pending budget of Lloyd-George and the Birrell land bill. During his address Judge O'Doherty quoted frequently from Moore, Mangan, Davis and other Irish poets, and his mass in it from October, 1897, until March, 1898. Meanwhile he had selected a site for future operations at Eighteenth and Magnolia avenue. The frame church was dedicated in March, 1908. The late Monsignor Bouchet officiated at the dedication and the sermon was preached by the Very Rev. Father Rock. The little parish grew apace, and in 1899 the parochial school was opened with forty-five pupils. Year by year the families multiplied; more Catholic families moved in until at present Father Weiss numbers 230 families on his rolls, and has 168 pupils taught by three Ursuline Sisters in his school.

Such a splendid growth in the congregation made a larger church necessary, and several months ago Father Weiss engaged an architect to draw plans for the new edifice. The cornerstone will be laid tomorrow and the work will be pushed rapidly, because Father Weiss expects to have his church dedicated about Easter. The interior embellishments will come later, and when completed it will be one of the handsomest church edifices in the diocese.

The Concordia Singing Society will assist at the exercises tomorrow and the Knights of St. John have been invited to attend in full uniform.

QUITE A TREAT.

Mackin Council Enjoys Address by Judge Matt O'Doherty.

Mackin Council's large hall was filled Monday night to hear Judge Matt O'Doherty lecture on his recent tour of Ireland and England. Previous to the appearance of Judge O'Doherty the council held a brief business session. Only the necessary routine affairs were discussed. Judge O'Doherty was given a great ovation when he entered the hall. He was presented to the assembled audience by President Louis J. Kieffer.

Judge O'Doherty's address was more in the nature of a heart to heart talk to Mackin's members than a lecture. From start to finish he had his audience interested quotations were always apt. The address was quite a literary treat to Mackin Council and the members liberally applauded. At its conclusion President Kieffer thanked Judge O'Doherty in behalf of Mackin, and Vice President Thomas D. Clines followed with a few remarks that made quite a hit.

Refreshments were served after the lecture and the members spent an hour or more in social chats.

DIED FAR FROM HOME.

The remains of Frank Hogan, who died at Douglas, Ariz., last week, were brought to Jeffersonville for interment. Mr. Hogan was born in Jeffersonville thirty years ago, and grew to manhood in that town. He was employed in the Auditor's office at the car works until three years ago, when he was compelled to go West in hope of restoring his failing health. Temporary relief came to him, and he obtained employment in Arizona, where his wife and child joined him. Dread tuberculosis had made such ravages that he could not recover. Mr. Hogan was a member of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, Catholic Knights of America and of the B. P. O. Elks. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Grace Coyle, one child and the following brothers and sisters: John and Patrick Hogan, of Jeffersonville; Stephen Hogan, of Madison, Ill.; and Mrs. Mary Roberts and Miss Lizzie Hogan, of Jeffersonville. The remains reached Jeffersonville Monday night, and the funeral took place from St. Anthony's church on Wednesday morning.

NEED NEW DIOCESES.

As a result of the first plenary council of the Roman Catholic Council in Canada proposals have been made to the Vatican for the creation of several new dioceses, especially in two new provinces, including almost certainly a diocese administered from Regina, where a Bishop would reside. Some subdivisions of the dioceses of eastern provinces is also suggested; and if this redistribution took place, the present Diocese of Ottawa would probably be split up into two dioceses, the provincial border being taken by the ecclesiastical boundary, such a division being the more likely in consequence of the claims of the French-Canadian element of the present diocese for a Bishop and diocese of their own.

HEAD IS THE MAN.

Hon. W. O. Head is one of the best equipped men in Louisville for the office of Mayor. He has been a student for more than twenty years. He is tolerant and independent in the best sense of the term. He is a strong, resolute, aggressive character, a man of undeniable courage and absolutely fearless in the face of duty. If elected Mayor he will defend the people against special privileges; he will defend the humble against the strong and powerful; he will fight for humanity and against cruelty. The time is ripe and the hour has struck for the appearance of just such a man in this community.

Mr. Head is a candidate that wears well—the longer you know him the better you like him. He is making daily visits to various parts of the city and mingling with the men that win elections. He will get the full Democratic vote of Louisville, and the votes of many Republicans who recognize his worth, and who are disgruntled with the hypocrisy of the Grinstead administration.

LIVE CATTLE VS. FREE TRADE.

The British Government, which seems about to go to pieces, is funny, pitifully funny. England is a free trade country. She lets into England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland the produce of every land from Japan to Patagonia. She takes from a welcome beef from the Argentine, mutton from Australia and pork from China. She needs it all to feed her millions on the eastern side of the Irish Sea. England takes beef and pork frozen, pickled, smoked and potted from Chicago packers and Germany's sausage makers, all regardless of its condition. But England draws the line at live cattle. The English, Scotch and Irish butchers must take their foreign meats "sight unseen," as the school boys say.

The ostensible reason for barring foreign cattle is to prevent the spread of disease among English herds. Very good. But what about spreading disease among the people who eat this pickled and potted foreign stuff? Is no regard paid to their welfare?

But there is another question. Would not the free importation of live cattle be too much help to Irish farmers, because the grazing lands of Ireland are considered unsurpassed in the world? The introduction of American and Canadian cattle into Ireland would mean a new and wonderful source of revenue to the Irish farmers. It would be more than ever the supporter of England, but the Britishers consider it too good for Ireland. Therefore cattle on the hoof will continue to be taxed.

VOTE RIGHT.

Every good citizen of Louisville ought to remember that next Tuesday will be election day, and that it is his duty to go to the polls and cast his vote regardless of party prejudice for what he considers right. It is a matter of conscience to vote for those whom you consider best fitted to govern, whether in high or in low places. The spurious reform, the hypocrisy of the present city administration, and the infamous conduct of some of its agents, have disgusted many of the former supporters of James F. Grinstead and his party. The Democrats, after his election as Mayor, respected his authority until he not only made himself a practical joke as a reformer, but advertised it. He certainly has an untiring if misguided press agent.

During the past ten days the police officials have grown desperate in their frenzy. There are some gentlemen remaining on the police force, but the majority have become demoralized, and no citizen is safe from insult, abuse and personal violence. The new Mayor should lose no time in weeding out the present force, and it is to be hoped that his first official act will be to name a Police Chief who believes in something more than dress parades, automobiles and brawls.

Go to the polls on Tuesday and vote for the right set of candidates. If you want 11,000 negroes to rule the city, vote for Grinstead. If you believe in white supremacy, vote for W. O. Head.

Police Sergt. Buck Miller was presented in the Police Court Wednesday on the charge of false swearing. He swore that W. H. C. Borgmann had been picked up drunk by the police on the night of September 30. Mr. Borgmann is a Republican, but this time stands for good government. He proved an alibi, and the Police Court Joke—beg pardon, Judge—dismissed Miller, but admonished him to be more careful in sweating away a man's reputation.

St. John's Record, a little magazine published monthly by the students of St. John's University, Collegeville, Minnesota, has made its appearance on our exchange list. It is a bright and interesting journal of current events and reflects credit on the students and their teachers, the Fathers of the Order of St. Benedict. The Kentucky Irish American is glad to have St. John's Record on its exchange list.

Tuesday will be All Souls' day, a day set apart by the church that all the faithful may offer prayers for the souls in purgatory. It is a time to pray for deceased relatives and friends and for those who have none to pray for them.

An exchange says: "In those days of cheap insurance the man who carries no protection comes dangerously near committing a crime." The editor might have admonished his readers also to insure in Catholic fraternal societies.

Monday will be All Saints' day and consequently a holy day of obligation. There are many saints not named in the church calendar, and each year the church sets aside November 1 as a day to honor all saints.

Louisville Mayoralty candidates have much to be thankful for—no suffragettes have appeared at their meetings to ask how they stand on the woman's suffrage question.

When you go to the polls do not forget that the water rates have been increased 15 per cent. since the present city administration came into power.

Today is a day of fast and abstinence, the transferred vigil of All Saints' day, which falls on Monday this year.

On Tuesday recollect that the city administration had to make a second tax levy to provide for the schools.

Vote to put men into power that will keep policemen from acting as agents for the Louisville Post.

IN MEMORIAM.

St. Mary Magdalen's Conference of the St. Vincent de Paul Society adopted the following resolutions on the death of James T. Campbell: Whereas, Almighty God in His eternal rest our beloved President and brother, James T. Campbell, it is Resolved, That in the death of Bro. Campbell this society loses a most faithful and zealous member, one who gave generously of his time and means for the amelioration of the condition of the poor, the widow and the orphan, of every creed and race, never sparing himself, but always prompt and eager to respond to the cry of the poor and distressed; and further

Resolved, That Bro. Campbell's labors in behalf of the poor, in a truly sincere, modest and catholic spirit, is an example worthy of our highest and best love and esteem and faithful imitation. We sincerely hope that our Heavenly Father will reward in an overflowing degree the noble, unselfish life work of this truly good man. We mourn his loss, and extend to the bereaved family the assurance of our most sincere sympathy.

ANSWERED DEATH'S CALL.

Douglas Masterson, a well known stationary engineer, died at his home, 125 Pope street, on Friday of last week and his funeral took place from St. Aloysius church on Sunday afternoon. The church was filled with sorrowing friends who assembled to pay their final respect to his mortal remains. The Rev. Father J. A. O'Grady officiated at the funeral services. Mr. Masterson was born in Nelson county, but had been a resident of Louisville for many years. His great grandfather was one of the early settlers of Virginia, and his father, who died last March at the age of ninety-two, was a Confederate soldier and served under Gen. John Morgan. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Bridget Hines, a daughter of the late and lamented Martin Hines. Mr. Masterson was quiet and unobtrusive, and his widow has the profound sympathy of many friends.

CLAMOR FOR PASSION PLAY.

Advices from Munich, Germany, say the demand for tickets for the Passion Play at Oberammergau is greater than ever before. Nearly 50,000 applications have been received, and the performances only begin on Ascension day, next May. It is stated that Anton Lang, who impersonates Christ, has received 1,000 applications for rooms in his house from Americans alone. The first Passion Play took place in 1720, and resulted in a deficit of $30. A like deficit continued until 1800, when things took a turn. The profits then increased every decade, being in 1890 $195,000. In that year the present theater, which seats 5,000 persons, was built at a cost of $50,000.

LEAVES CITIZENS' TICKET.

James Kehoe, who was nominated for Councilman from the Eighth ward on the Citizens' ticket, has withdrawn from the race and will support Hon. W. O. Head and the Democratic ticket. Mr. Kehoe wrote a manly letter of withdrawal, indicating that he had been persuaded to become a candidate through a misrepresentation of fact, and that he has no intention of being party to a scheme to aid the Republicans.

GAVE BRITISHERS THRILL.

Englishmen received another sensation last Saturday when Hubert Latham, the French aviator, exemplified the possibilities of an aeroplane in the hands of a fearless pilot. At times his monoplane appeared to stand still and at other times the machine was driven at a rate estimated to be between eighty and one hundred miles an hour as he twice circled the course. Once he barely escaped being carried out to sea. Latham's performance caused a sensation among the aviators present, among whom there is a division of opinion as to whether his success is to be attributed to that special Frenchman, which proverbially watches over fools, or to the fact that aeroplanists have hitherto underestimated the abilities of the new machine.

SIXTY-THIRD ANNIVERSARY SALE

WILL BE HELD

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER THIRD,
NINETEEN HUNDRED AND NINE.

For the Celebration of the Sixty-third Anniversary of this great business, the entire store with its Forty-five Departments has arranged one of the most colossal merchandising events ever held in the South. No doubt, many of our patrons will recall the extraordinary sale of last year; it is an indisputable fact that the volume of business on that occasion has never been equalled in one day by any retail Dry Goods Store in the South or West. Every arrangement has been made to have the Sale of Wednesday, November 3rd, eclipse the record of last year. Greater preparations have been made than ever before; the facilities for handling the crowds are greatly improved, and the values are decidedly greater than any ever offered in the history of the Store.

Before his departure from Manila for Rome the Knights, at the instance of Archbishop Harty, gave a smoker in his honor at the archiepiscopal parish. His Excellency was much moved by the homage paid him.

Florence Council of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., will hold a Columbian exposition November 15 to 29 for the purpose of reducing the bonded indebtedness of the Columbus Institute, the first edifice erected by the order in the United States.

The new Catholic college to be conducted by the clerics of St. Viateur at Chamberlain, South Dakota, will probably be called Columbus College on account of the efficient aid furnished by the Knights in securing this property. Its worth is estimated at $300,000.

PLAYED THE LIMIT.

How One Irishman Overtaxed Hospitality of His Cousin.

Many writers have declared that an Irish gentleman's hospitality is unlimited, but this is a slight exaggeration, as is shown by a story borrowed from a book of Irish memoirs.

Jerry McCartie was often the guest of friends who on account of his pleasant ways extended to him that sort of old Irish hospitality which enabled a visitor in my own family who came for a fortnight to stay for six years.

In McCartie's case the visit stretched to nearly double that time. After eight or nine years, however, his kinsman got a little tired of his guest and let him know of his old kinsman's proposed renovation and that he had signed a contract for having it painted from garret to cellar.

"By George," said Jerry, "it's fortunate that I don't object to the smell of paint, and it will be well to have someone to keep an eye on the painters now that the wall fruit is ripening."

Some months passed. Then his host informed him that he was going to be married, adding, "I thought I'd tell you in good time, so that you could make leisurely preparations to go, as the lady and you may not hit it off as well as you and I do."

With tearful eyes Jerry grasped his cousin's hand, saying: "Oh, Dan, dear, you have my hearty thanks for your consideration; but dear, dear boy, surely if you can put up with her I can."

ARE YOUR HANDS EMPTY.

That was a beautiful thought which sprang from the heart to the lips of a lowly hospital nun. She was attending a young woman a trifle worldly in her ways, whom the doctors had given over and who ceased not weeping day and night.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing
the Past Week—General
News Notes.

The coming initiation promises to greatly strengthen the order in Louisville.

A parade on the Sunday preceding St. Patrick's day is being considered by Buffalo Hibernians.

Division 4 will give the County Board a cordial greeting upon the occasion of the quarterly meeting.

A rousing reception awaits William T. Meenan when he makes his appearance at the meeting of Division 2.

At the last meeting of the division at Olean, N. Y., the degrees were conferred on a class of twelve candidates.

Buffalo Hibernians are contemplating the erection of a monument to the many sons of Erin who died in the cause of America.

The four divisions should make every effort to have all their candidates ready for the initiation arranged by the County Board.

Division 9's baseball club of Minneapolis has given two dancing parties since winning the pennant that have been very largely attended.

The County Board of Buffalo, N. Y., is so cheered with the success of its first attempt at athletics games that the members have decided to make an Irish field day a permanent feature.

Division 1 will meet Tuesday night, when some very important business will be transacted. It is also probable that members for the degree term will be selected.

The sympathy of the members in this city and county goes out to Misses Elizabeth and Bertha King and former County President Thomas Quinn, who are sadly bereaved by the loss of a loving and devoted father and bright and promising son.

Milwaukee Hibernians are planning a series of lectures on Irish subjects for the winter. Among the more noted speakers are Miss Keith O'Neil, of Chicago; Congressman James M. Graham, of Springfield, Ill., and Rev. Father Dempsey, of St. Louis.

Wednesday evening the Ladies' Auxiliary will meet at Robinson Hall, Seventeenth and Main, and complete arrangements for the reception and reunion to be held November 17. Miss Rose Sweeney and the officers urge all members to be present.

Division 2 meets next Friday night at First and Market streets and a large attendance of members and visitors is looked for. This division holds frequent social sessions and it is hinted that Joe Lynch and John Keane have a pleasant surprise for Friday night.

Among the many workers for the order in this city none are more zealous than John T. Keane, the efficient and able Financial Secretary of Division 2. Though unassuming he is always active, and through his efforts many good men have been ushered into the Ancient Order.

Next in order comes the nomination and election of officers. This is of the utmost importance, as upon those who will be chosen will rest in a great measure the future welfare of the divisions. Our officers in the Falls City have all been good men, and there is no doubt but that the wisdom that has heretofore prevailed in their selection will continue.

VOTE OF THANKS

Given D. J. Coleman and
His Co-workers by the Hibernians.

President Patrick T. Sullivan presided over a fairly well attended meeting of Division 3 on Thursday night of last week. One application was received and three members were reported on the sick list. Reports of the Financial Secretary and Treasurer for the third quarter showed that the division was growing financially. President Sullivan read an interesting chapter of Irish history.

A rising vote of thanks was given D. J. Coleman and his colleagues on the committee that arranged and carried out the recent silver jubilee celebration. Many of the members made addresses complimentary to Mr. Coleman and his co-workers.

SAVE TO CHARITY.

The Schwaben Verein, one of the leading German societies of Chicago, at its annual distribution of its funds for charity made contributions of over $3,000 to many deserving institutions, among which are the following: Alexian Brothers' Hospital, $300; Little Sisters of the Poor, $250; the German Aid Society, $250; Ulich's Orphan Asylum, $150; St. Anne's Orphan Asylum, $150; Rosehill Orphan Asylum, $150, and the German Old People's Home, $150.

NEW INDIANA CHURCH.

Imposing ceremonies graced the dedication of the new church at Dale, Ind., last Sunday. The Right Rev. Denis O'Donoghue, Auxiliary Bishop of Indianapolis, was the officiating minister. He was assisted by the Rev. Father John O'Connell, of Jeffersonville; Rev. Father Schmitt, O. S. B., of St. Meinrad's Abbey, and the Rev. Father Bauer, of Huntington. Delegations of the Knights of St. John were also present from Jeffersonville, New Albany, Evansville and Vincennes. The new church cost $30,000 and is one of the handsomest in Southern Indiana.

LATE REPARATION.

The Catholic Woman's League of England is raising funds to erect a shrine in honor of St. Joan of Arc in the new Westminster Catholic Cathedral. It will be in the form of a mosaic. It was the English that caused Joan of Arc to be burned at the stake.

Be Entertained Next Meeting.

Division 4, A. O. H., met Monday evening with President John Hennessy in the chair and a good attendance present. Dr. Charles A. Edelen was reported on the sick list, being threatened with typhoid pneumonia, being the only member of Division 4 ill at present, which is below the usual average.

President Hennessy announced that the County Board would hold a joint initiation on Sunday, December 19, in the large hall and Division 4's degree team would put on the work. Michael McDermott announced that the Democratic ticket was successful next Tuesday that he would entertain with a little spread at the next meeting, when he expects to be called Councilman.

JUBILEE AT AUGUSTA.

On Monday the Catholics of Augusta, Ky., celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of St. Augustine's church, one of the handsomest edifices in Eastern Kentucky. The present pastor is the Rev. Henry B. Gellenbeck, who made the arrangements for the golden jubilee. The Right Rev. Bishop Maes, of Covington, reached Augusta Sunday afternoon and opened the celebration with a sermon at 7:30 o'clock that evening. At the conclusion of the jubilee mass on Monday Bishop Maes confirmed a class of forty-five children.

SAW THE LIGHT.

Mary Garden, the noted English actress, has become a convert to the Catholic church. For some time she had constantly attended services at the Madeleine, immediately after which she went on a motor tour through Italy. There the beauty of the churches and church symbols deeply impressed her, and she was especially struck with the influence of the Catholic religion in soothing turbulent passions and in preventing crime. "That is part of what led to my conversion," she remarked. Her next visit to America, she added, would probably be her last.

DISREPUTABLE

Methods of Campaign Employed by the Evening Post.

Its Attack On George Coder Malicious and Without Excuse.

The Post's Ignorance of the "Ethical Principles of Unionism."

THE DICKEY BIRD IS IN BAD

In its efforts to discredit the entire Democratic ticket and give the "reform" Republican aggregation a clean field for its mismanagement of city affairs, the Independent-Republican Post goes to extremes in its denunciation of the Democratic candidates with its venomous slanders day after day through its entire editions. Its ignorance of the "ethical principles of unionism" is as apparent to union men as are its professions of adherence to the quotation, "If new and true, not otherwise."

The Post's attempt to characterize George Coder as a "rat" or "scab" proves its ignorance of the "ethical principles of unionism," as no man can be so designated unless he has first voluntarily taken the oath of allegiance to unionism and then violated his obligation by what is called "ratting" or "scabbing." Any one of the union men in the Post's employ could have enlightened the editor of the Post on this subject.

Besides, Mr. Coder is not a printer, but has only a small preliminary interest in the Bradley-Gilbert Printing Company, which he has gained by his business ability and persistent endeavor to "make good."

It is true that while he was a member of a previous Council his firm contracted for and did work contrary to law. The Typographical Union fought the payment of the bill through the local and Court of Appeals and won it—the Court of Appeals holding that as long as Mr. Coder was a member of the Council his firm could not legally accept and do work for the city. The union only fought the position of the firm as a non-union establishment, and not Coder personally. On the contrary Mr. Coder has voluntarily, in the presence of a representative of this paper and two other reputable citizens, pledged himself to elect to support an ordinance favoring the placing of the union label on all city printing, and otherwise using his best efforts to enact legislation beneficial to the wage earners of the city.

This much we think is due Mr. Coder, who is a young man of unusual business ability and should not be hounded by political assassins for the purpose of making him a target for conditions for which he is in no way responsible.

In order to boost up a warring cause the Dickey Bird is resorting to tactics usually employed by the political buccaneer. He should be careful in his attempt to advise labor to vote for the Republican party. The power classes of white labor would be the principal sufferers if the Republicans should by chance be returned in power, for the negro would be in evidence for every white man's job in sight. And why not? Does he not furnish the major part of the G. O. P. vote?

No man or set of men who profess loyalty to the cause of labor have the right to pledge the intelligent vote of the rank and file of union men to any political party. This question has been discussed in every labor union in the country, and the consensus of opinion has been that labor, as a body, has no right to attempt to coerce its members to vote for any political party. The past ten years has developed in sentiment in favor of voting for men and measures that promise and favor remedial legislation looking to just and equal laws for the protection of both capital and labor alike.

Struck the Right Medicine. 10

Shipman, Ill., August 17, 1908.
Ten years ago my daughter was taken with nerve disease, could not walk without falling down and could hardly see herself at the table, was at times very nervous and could not sleep at nights. We doctored for about 2 years, then we used Father Koenig's Nerve Tonic, it had a wonderful effect on her and cured her of all this, we struck the right kind of medicine.

Mrs. JOHN SMITH.

Anthony, R. I., January 17th, 1908.
I have used 6 bottles of the wonderful remedy, Father Koenig's Nerve Tonic and I am now enjoying the very best of health. I suffered from weakness, vitality, debility and kindred ailments and had a severe attack of nervousness which left me in a weakened and miserable condition. Gratefully I recommend the remedy to all sufferers and they can refer to me, I will answer all letters.

SYMPATHY FOR PARENTS.

Hibernians all over the city are in deep sympathy with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Quinn, whose three-year-old boy, Thomas Quinn, Jr., died on Wednesday morning at the family residence, 1730 Portland avenue.

The little fellow was idolized by his parents, and was a general favorite in his neighborhood. The funeral took place from the residence on Thursday, and many friends of the deceased were present.

TRIBUTE

From New England Methodist Episcopal Church to Catholics.

Sermon to His Boston Flock Tells of Faithful Devotion.

Enlarges Work of Catholic in Schools and Their Academies.

HONOR WHERE IT IS DUE

There are some of our dissenting brethren who see good in the Catholic church. Not the least of these was the recently deceased Methodist Episcopal Bishop Foster, of Massachusetts. In a sermon at the old North church shortly before his death Bishop Foster said:

"I have a great deal of respect for Roman Catholics and the Roman Catholic church, and the feeling becomes stronger as I grow older. I do not think we can afford to criticize Catholics until we display at least equal zeal in the service of the Master. Who are they whose feet go clattering by our houses these cold winter mornings? Who are they who fill their churches to worship God when we are in our beds? Who throng our streets with reverent faces, with prayer book in hand, eye, and perhaps with as reverent heart as any of you bear?"

"They are zealous, faithful Catholics, who believe in the truth of their church and feel that through it alone they can worship God, whom they fear and love. To what church do these self-sacrificing communities belong, that toil from morning until night for the good of God's people? Who are these who come here from foreign lands, poor and strange, with nothing but a spade, and have erected temples of worship that put us to shame? Isn't it the hard-working man and the poor servant girl, who lay a tithe of their earnings on the altar of God, sincere in their belief, and will they not find favor in God's eyes?"

"There was a paragraph in the Christian Advocate the other day which made me blush when I read it. It stated that in New York City the Catholics have a church property of more than $11,000,000, a greater sum than the value of all other church property, except that owned by the Episcopal church."

"These Catholics are the people who fill their churches every Sunday with tapers or four different congregations. These are the people who sixty years ago had but three churches in New York, and are now filling all our Protestant cities and towns. What right have we to complain that this is so? Why should we abuse them because their churches crown the noblest eminences of the land? Let us possess ourselves of those virtues and qualities which they have in a stronger degree than we, and those added to what we already possess may put us in a position when we have a right to criticize their actions."

"To what church," asks the Bishop, "do these self-sacrificing communities (meaning nuns, and Sisters) belong that toil from morning until night for the good of God's people?" It may be of interest to cite in fellowship with the Bishop's question the statement of Augustus Post when commenting the difference between education and instruction. "In the United States," writes Mr. Post, "more than one-third of the students in Catholic academies and convents are non-Catholic. The children of wealthy Protestant parents and of the better class Jews are entrusted to the care of the Sisters that their morals be sanctified. The parents rest easy at nights, for they know their children are safe. There is also an impression which continues to diffuse itself among thoughtful minds that there is something in the training of a convent school which imparts to a girl a flavor of refinement and high courtesy, a dignity of carriage and a suavity of address which remain with her through life."

YOUR DUTY FIRST.

Every Citizen Should Vote to Guard the Safety of Home, Kindred and Property Against Negro Domination.

Who Is Who Among the Candidates Put Forward by the Democratic Party and Something About Their Records.

Next Tuesday will be election day, and every voter in Louisville is expected to go to the polls on that day and cast his vote for what he considers the best interests of the community at large. Every American citizen has the right to vote as he chooses. He is a sovereign in himself and ought to appreciate that fact. Acute illness and death are the only satisfactory excuses for failure to vote. Do you want to vote for the ticket headed by James F. Grinstead, whose regime made possibilities of Foster, Luchinger and Pfau? Do you want negro domination or do you want Louisville to remain a city of white people, for white people and governed by white people?

There are always two sides to a question—do you stand for Foster, Luchinger, Pfau and niggers, or do you stand for white supremacy? There is no necessity for beating around the bush. Vote one way or the other. The Democratic party, headed by W. O. Head, stands for all that is good and great in Kentucky. Since the days of Daniel Boone, Simon Kenton and George Rogers Clarke the negroes have been well treated in Kentucky when they were treated well as long as Kentucky lasts, as long as they continue to act the part of good citizens. The Democrats of Louisville and Jefferson county have presented an extraordinary good ticket this year. Man for man it is for above the ticket offered by the Republicans. Herewith are some of the Democratic candidates and their records.

W. O. HEAD.

William O. Head, the Democratic nominee for Mayor of Louisville, is a native of Kentucky, for more than a quarter of a century a resident of this city, and always a reputable gentleman. From his earliest boyhood he has been engaged in tobacco culture and in the wholesale tobacco business. Few men have greater knowledge of the commercial value of Kentucky's greatest staple. Mr. Head is a man of culture, of means and a man who has the best interests of the city at heart. The prosperity of Louisville means prosperity for W. O. Head, and it means that the business interests of Louisville will be protected by weapons of offense as well as defense. Mr. Head is not an idler. He is always on the alert. Even in his moments of rest he is sleeping on his arms. He has served the city before as a member of the Legislature and his services were invaluable. He has made only one ante-election promise—to give Louisville a sane and sound city government.

JUDGE SHACKELFORD MILLER.

Chancellors are the most important officials in any government. In Judge Shackelford Miller the city of Louisville has an able exemplar of what the Chancellor ought to be. For fourteen years he has been Judge of the First Chancery division of the Jefferson Circuit Court, and has filled his position creditably and well. From 1895 to 1897 he served as special Judge in that branch of the Circuit Court. In 1897 he was elected Judge of the First Chancery division for a term of six years, and at the expiration of his term was re-elected for six years more. Now he has been nominated to succeed himself for another term of six years. Judge Miller was born in Jefferson county and is a son of an old Kentucky family. He is a graduate of the Louisville High School and of the Louisville Law School. All his interests are in Kentucky, and his sole idea is to give to his people, city and State the best that is in him.

MARK RYAN.

The Thirty-eighth Senatorial district, which is composed of the Eighth, Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh and Twelfth wards of Louisville, has been particularly fortunate in having Mark Ryan chosen by the Democratic party as its candidate for State Senator. Mr. Ryan is a self-made man in the strict sense of the word. His elementary education was received in Louisville schools, but early in his youth he had to go to work. He learned the bricklayers' trade, and for several years worked as a journeyman. He aspired to higher things. At night he studied and read and took an interest in politics. His hard work attracted the attention of the leaders and in 1898 he was appointed a deputy in the Circuit Clerk's office. He has held that position for twelve years. During his spare hours he studied law, attended the law school and several years ago he was admitted to the bar. In every way he is qualified to represent the people of the State.

Senator. Mr. Ryan is a member of the Knights of Columbus.

JUDGE SAMUEL B. KIRBY.

Samuel B. Kirby, the Junior Chancellor of the Jefferson Circuit Court, has obtained an enviable reputation as a jurist since he assumed his position on the bench six years ago.

Like his colleague, Judge Miller, he was born in Kentucky, and is a graduate of Louisville schools. He has practiced law here for twenty-five years, and has been identified with some of the most intricate litigation in the local courts. Judge Kirby is a good mixer, a prudent pleader and an able advocate. Devotion to the Democratic party caused his nomination and election as County Attorney in 1901. He served two years, and in 1903 was nominated and elected Judge of the Second Chancery division of the Circuit Court. Since his elevation to the bench Judge Kirby has been efficient and energetic. His decisions have been marked by probity and always display a thorough knowledge of the law. It is the duty of the citizens of Louisville and Jefferson county to re-elect him for another term of six years.

THOMAS R. GORDON.

Few members of the Kentucky bar are more widely known and held in higher regard than Thomas R. Gordon, who is the incumbent Judge of the Second division of the Common Pleas Court, and who has been nominated by the Democrats to succeed himself. Judge Gordon is a native of Oldham county. He grew to manhood and practiced law there before removing to Louisville. His commanding presence and dignified bearing won him the respect of his fellows when he removed to Louisville to practice. Without a short time he had risen to a position of prominence at the Louisville bar, and for many years the firm of Strother & Gordon was recognized as one of Louisville's leading law firms. In 1902 Judge Gordon was elected to the position he now holds to serve an unexpired term of one year. In 1903 he was elected to succeed himself for six years. During his seven years of service on the bench he has made a record that any jurist might be proud of, and his re-election will reflect credit on the wisdom of the voters of Louisville and Jefferson county.

During his seven years of service on the bench he has made a record that any jurist might be proud of, and his re-election will reflect credit on the wisdom of the voters of Louisville and Jefferson county.

WILLIAM H. FIELD.

William H. Field, who has been nominated by the Democrats of Louisville to succeed his late and illustrious father, Emmet Field, as Judge of the First division of the Common Pleas Court, hardly needs an introduction to Louisville voters. He is a native of Louisville, attended and graduated from her High School, studied law under his father and at the University of Virginia. Before practicing his profession as an attorney Mr. Field was the court reporter for the Courier-Journal for several years, and is regarded by those in a position to know as the ablest and most energetic court reporter that paper ever had. He has all the calmness and broadness of character that his father possessed. His erudition perhaps surpasses that of his father, but he inherits all of the late Judge's good traits. Will Field has always been a Democrat, but until the present campaign has never sought office; neither has he ever engaged in active political work. He has the mind of an analytical jurist and his election will reflect new splendor on the Kentucky bar.

WALTER P. LINCOLN.

Walter P. Lincoln, a native of Louisville, a graduate of her High School and law school, is the Democratic nominee for Judge of the Third division of the Common Pleas Court. Mr. Lincoln was born of Irish parents and is proud of it. He has always been identified with Democratic affairs and for years has been active in the councils of that party. His long experience and sound judgment in legal affairs have caused him on many occasions to be chosen as special Judge in the Jefferson Circuit Court. In 1907 he was appointed Judge of Jefferson county by Gov. Beckham, and acquitted himself admirably. Attorney Lincoln is in every way qualified to grace the bench. He is one of those lawyers who are continuous students. He finds something new to learn each day. Nor does he confine his studies to law alone—literature, art, social economy and church history are always full of interest to him. Mr. Lincoln is one of the first members of Louisville Council, Knights of Columbus.

MUIR WEISSINGER.

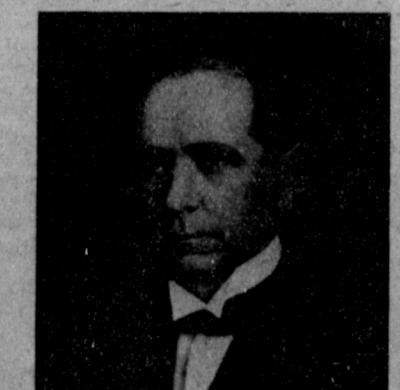

Muir Weissinger, the Democratic nominee for Judge of the Jefferson County Court, is a young man of superior talents. His intellect comes to him by right of inheritance.

ance. Both his father and mother are people of more than ordinary intellect and intelligence. His father, Harry Weissinger, one of Louisville's leading business men and most esteemed citizens, gave his son every educational advantage. When he returned from college he was not only a student of law, but had drunk from the founts of jurisprudence in different universities. Engaging in appearance, courteous yet dignified, Muir Weissinger appeared to have all that any young lawyer might need. He was not yet satisfied. The young attorney entered the office of his uncle, Peter B. Muir, the mentor and patriarch of Louisville's bar. After a few years there Attorney Weissinger decided it was time to paddle his own canoe and embarked in his own behalf. This is his first venture in politics. After election he will handle the affairs of the County Court in an able and exemplary manner.

SAMUEL J. BOLDRICK.

Samuel J. Boldrick, the Democratic nominee for Judge of the Police Court, belongs to one of the oldest families in Kentucky. He is a native of Marion county, inheriting

Kentucky grit and Kentucky energy. After graduating from St. Mary's College in Marion county he attended Georgetown University and graduated from its law school with distinctive honors. Unobtrusive in his manner, Mr. Boldrick has made friends of all those with whom he associated. During the past fifteen years he has practiced law in Louisville, and while his name has never been heralded in the newspapers he has had some mighty problems to handle. This is his first venture into active politics, although he has always been a Democrat and has taken an interest in Democratic affairs. He understands human nature, the first requisite for a Judge of the Police Court. His fellow attorneys predict that he will make an able, astute jurist, and that he will at all times temper justice with mercy.

A. SCOTT BULLITT.

In accepting the nomination for County Attorney from the Democratic party A. Scott Bullitt is making a personal sacrifice. But he does not mind that. At school and college he never minded a jam in a football game, and to him, with youth and hope on his side, everything is bright and promising. He comes of a family of lawyers, and states his case so plainly that nobody has ever accused him of being an orator, but according to family traditions he is liable to catch the ailment at any time. He is a sound and reasoning attorney; one of the kind that never quits until he gets to the root of things. He comes of a family of lawyers, and states his case so plainly that nobody has ever accused him of being an orator, but according to family traditions he is liable to catch the ailment at any time. He is a sound and reasoning attorney; one of the kind that never quits until he gets to the root of things.

HERMAN D. NEWCOMB.

Hon. Herman D. Newcomb, the Democratic nominee for State Senator in the Thirty-sixth Senatorial district, which includes the county of Jefferson and the First, Second and Third wards of Louisville, is strictly a home product. In his race for State Senator Mr. Newcomb has made many friends in the city and particularly in the county, where he has devoted a great deal of his time since his nomination, and from the pace he has set he will be a sure winner. The people realize that Mr. Newcomb is making his race in the interest of no class or set of men, and that if elected he is in a position to serve the interests of all the people of Louisville and Jefferson county alike. His ability and experience are well known, and it is certain that the voters in his district are going to avail themselves of the opportunity of naming a State Senator who is in every way best fitted to serve their interests. Mr. Newcomb has served in the Kentucky House of Representatives and is thoroughly familiar with the workings of the State Legislature.

DR. ELLIS DUNCAN.

The Democratic party acted wisely in nominating Dr. Ellis Duncan for Coroner of Jefferson county. Few young men are more popular in the community. Despite his boyish appearance Dr. Duncan is a man of mature thought and a physician and surgeon of experience. All his hopes and aims are centered in Louisville, and at all times he has given his best endeavors to help the people of this city. When the Spanish-American war opened in 1898, Dr. Duncan was one of the first residents of Louisville to volunteer. As surgeon he accompanied the First Kentucky Regiment from Louisville to Lexington, to Tennessee and then to Porto Rico. The good health of the Kentucky boys was due in a great measure to the watchfulness and care of Dr. Duncan. On his return he was made Superintendent of the City Hospital and made the most capable official ever in charge of that institution. In 1907 he was appointed Coroner of Jefferson county by Gov. Beckham. Now he has been nominated at the instance of the people, who expect to elect him. There are no taints on his character, and he will make an excellent public servant.

LOUIS SUMMERS.

It is doubtful if Louisville ever had a man better equipped for the position of Clerk of the Jefferson Circuit Court than Louis Summers, the present candidate of the Democratic party. Mr. Summers is still on the sunny side of fifty, but has been engaged in Democratic politics since he was twenty-one. Few men know the details of Kentucky law as does Louis Summers. He was deputy Clerk under Capt. John H. Weller years ago, when he was Clerk of the old Chancery Court. He remained as deputy when the new constitution was adopted. Later he was a clerk in the office of the Board of Public Works, and for the past four years has been the City Assessor of Louisville. In each and every position he has made a study of detail, and his subordinates have always been men that he has picked for their knowledge and attention to duty and indefatigability. His election as Circuit Clerk will mean much to the people of Louisville and Jefferson county.

A. M. EMLER.

Sheriff of Jefferson county is one of the most important offices in the State of Kentucky. Aside from the State Treasurer the incumbent handles more money annually than any fiscal officer in the State. Louisville and Jefferson county has never had a Sheriff recreant to his trust, and for that reason A. M. Emlier, a lifelong Democrat, a man of affairs and a man of enterprise, has been nominated by his party as the candidate for that high position at the coming election. He comes of good German stock and has lots of hard, common sense. From boyhood he has buffeted the world and has always managed to stay on top. Few men in Louisville are more highly regarded in business and banking circles. Mr. Emlier did not enter the political arena through choice. He was convinced that it was a duty he owed his fellow citizens, his city, county and State. He will make the best Sheriff Jefferson county has ever had.

ROWAN HARDIN.

Among the several Democratic nominees for Representatives in the Kentucky Legislature there are few, if any, able men than Rowan Hardin, nominated to represent the Forty-seventh Legislative district, composed of the Fourth and Fifth wards. The very name Rowan Hardin is indicative of the fact that he springs from two of Kentucky's oldest and most celebrated families. Mr. Hardin was born in Frankfort, and spent his early boyhood in Bardonia. In 1885 he came to Louisville and entered the High School. After graduating from that institution he studied law and graduated from the Louisville Law School. He began to practice his profession in 1892, and since then has built up a lucrative trade as a barrister. He has served as a member of the Louisville Council, and is in every way qualified to fill the position for which he has been nominated. Among his brother lawyers he is regarded highly for his knowledge of State and municipal law. As a Representative he will ably represent his city and district, and his nomination has added strength to the ticket in what is normally a doubtful district.

GEORGE BERRY.

One of the easiest winners on the Democratic ticket at the coming election is George Berry, the nominee for Magistrate in the Eighth district, which is composed of the Eleventh and Twelfth wards. Mr. Berry is a man of the people. He lives, moves and works among them. As a commission merchant he meets all classes, and is popular in every class. His word is taken as his bond, and his election as Magistrate will mean that he is destined for higher things still. Mr. Berry is an active member of Holy Cross parish and an ardent member of the Knights of Columbus. This is his first entry into practical politics, but those familiar with his sound and commonsense way of looking at things believe that Magisterial dignity will only be a stepping stone toward Congressional honors.

FRED LEEZER.

Fred Leezer, the well known brick contractor, is recognized as one of the ablest of the many able men nominated for Aldermen. He is a Louisville man and is well and favorably known in building and commercial circles. Moreover his leaning toward union labor has made him popular with the working classes. Mr. Leezer has had some of the largest bricklaying contracts in the city, and his work has never failed to give satisfaction. He will make the kind of Alderman that Louisville needs, but the kind that the Legislature has never had before.

past two years. He knows every hole and corner of the city, and will undoubtedly be a leader in his board. Mr. Leezer has always been a Democrat, but has never been a politician. He expects to introduce systematic business methods into the procedure of the upper board of the General Council.

CHARLES W. MILLIKEN.

Charles W. Milliken, the Democratic nominee for City Tax Receiver, is a Kentuckian born and bred. A native of Simpson county, he loves every hill and valley in the State, and is proud of the fact that he is of Irish descent. In 1888 he removed to Louisville as an employee of the Adams Express Company. He was a hustler, and within a few years became Vice President of the American Butter and Cheese Company, the largest business of its kind south of the Ohio river. While there are branch houses in Indianapolis, Detroit, Cleveland and Birmingham, Mr. Milliken has been the active head of this business for several years, and beyond a doubt has a personal acquaintance exceeded by none in Louisville. Mr. Milliken has always been a Democrat and has always taken an active interest in his party's welfare. He will make an ideal Tax Receiver, and four years hence may be the party's candidate for Mayor.

FRANK DACHER.

Popular Frank Dacher, who is the nominee for Magistrate in the Fifth Magisterial district, composed of the First, Second and Third wards, is a wheel horse among the young Democratic workers of Louisville. He was born, raised and educated in Louisville and from boyhood has been identified with Democratic politics. The only way to make Frank Dacher angry is to accuse him of being anything but a Democrat. For eight years he made an efficient deputy in the Circuit Clerk's office, and learned by experience more law than many attorneys who carry college degrees. In 1906 he was appointed Clerk of the Quarterly Court for a term of three years. Now he aspires to the more dignified position of Magistrate. Mr. Dacher does not confine all his attention to legal affairs. He believes in recreation as well as work. His popularity is so great among the bowlers that he has been named President of the "alls" City League, and he is likewise an ardent baseball fan.

HARRY C. NEHAN.

Harry C. Nehan, real estate dealer and broker, has been nominated by the Democratic party for Clerk of the Louisville Police Court, and the honor could not fall on worthier shoulders. Born, raised and educated in Louisville, and thoroughly identified with the city's interests, he will make a most capable officer. Although he has never before aspired to office, Mr. Nehan has always been a Democrat and a hard worker for the party. He is also a hard worker in the local ranks of the Knights of Columbus, and has done faithful service as Secretary of their Entertainment Committee. Wherever there is work to be done in a good cause you will find Harry Nehan. After he becomes Clerk of the Police Court he will carry with him into that office the same business system that has made him prosperous, and will conduct himself with the gentlemanly bearing that has made him popular.

THOMAS MORAN.

Thomas Moran, known to his familiars as "Bud" Moran, is the Democratic nominee for Bailiff of the Police Court. He has lived all his life in the Tenth ward, and since he has been old enough to vote has been active in Democratic politics. No night was too cold, no blizzard too fierce to chill the ardor of Bud Moran when Democratic interests were at stake. For four years he has been Constable in Magistrate Edward O'Connor's court and has always shown devotion to duty, even under trying circumstances. Mr. Moran understands human nature and he knows Louisville people. After his election as Bailiff he will understand how to handle the crowds in the Police Court, and in that way will be an efficient aid to the Police Judge. He is young, active, alert and an all around vote getter. His early ability on the baseball field made him popular with the fans, and Mr. Moran is in every way popular with the younger democracy.

JOHN R. PFLANZ.

There are few, if any, men on the Democratic ticket that have seen more public service or that have done as much for Louisville and Jefferson county as John R. Pfanz.

He was born, raised and educated in Portland, and while always having the interests of the West End at heart, he has never overlooked a chance to benefit the people of the whole city. For several years he served as a member of the Board of Aldermen, and from 1895 to 1898 he was Sheriff of Jefferson county. In 1898 he was elected Jailor of Jefferson county and served until the close of 1907. In all his public service he has been faithful and competent. During his regime as Jailor the new jail was built, and many of his ideas were incorporated into the plans of the supervising architect. Mr. Pfanz has always been humane in his treatment of prisoners, and his former conduct in office caused the people to clamor for his re-nomination. Mr. Pfanz is a practical Catholic and a member of the Knights of Columbus.

PRES S. RAY.

Pres S. Ray is known to nearly every voter in Louisville and Jefferson county as one of the wide-awake Democrats in this neck of the woods. He has always been a Democrat and from 1902 until 1906 was the Assessor for Jefferson county. His host of followers have caused him to be nominated for County Clerk this trip, and his personal popularity insures his success. Mr. Ray is no halfway man. He finishes every job he tackles, and is not afraid of hard work. His experience as County Assessor brought him into contact with affairs in the office of the County Clerk, so that when he assumes that office he will drop into duties that will make him feel at home. His friends and admirers stretch from the lines of Oldham and Bullitt counties to the Ohio river on the north and west. Even Republicans that have had business dealings with him are hearty in their support of Pres Ray.

BEN J. BRUMLEVE.

Ben J. Brumleve, a sterling young Democrat and active business man, is one of the Democratic nominees for Alderman, and his election will mean that the Eleventh ward will have at least one able representative in the General Council of the city of Louisville. He is a son of John Brumleve, a pioneer German-American merchant of Louisville, and is thoroughly identified with the city's interests. For several years he has been engaged in the hay, grain and flour business at Seventeenth and Chestnut streets. He is able, intelligent, aggressive and at the same time courteous. The voters of the Eleventh ward know him well, and his constant intercourse with business people has made him well known and popular all over the city. Mr. Brumleve is no one man's candidate, but expects to work for all the people all the time.

SAMUEL L. ROBERTSON.

The Fifty-first Legislative district, which is made up of the Eleventh and Twelfth wards, has a sure winner in Samuel L. Robertson, the Democratic nominee for Representative. He is a contractor in putting down concrete and granitoid pavements, and although a young man has been very successful in business. Since his early manhood he has been active in Mackin Council, Y. M. C. and is one of the Vice Presidents of that organization. His mind is as broad as his stature and heart are large. Mr. Robertson has always been a Democrat, and has been a hard worker for his party when his services were most needed. He knows everybody in his district, and all know him well and favorably.

Mr. Robertson knows what his district needs in the way of State legislation, and will use his utmost endeavors at the coming session of the Legislature to pass laws beneficial to his district and State.

B. J. CAMPBELL, JR.

One of the young men of sterling worth and ability who has been nominated by the Democratic party for Alderman is Bernard J. Campbell, Jr. He is more familiarly known as "young" Barney Campbell. Like his father, Mr. Campbell has always taken an interest in politics, municipal, State and national, and always votes the straight Democratic ticket. This is his first venture as a candidate, but his personal popularity will insure his election. He is a plasterer by trade and is the President of the Kentucky Wall Plaster Company. Since establishing the firm of which he is President Mr. Campbell has been eminently successful. Although proud of his Irish parentage, he is still prouder of his State and city, and as Alderman will be uniting in his efforts to make prudent laws for the city's government.

DR. D. BORGMAN.

Among the Democrats who have given their time and attention to educational affairs in Louisville is Dr. D. Borgman, who represents the Eleventh and Twelfth wards in the Louisville School Board. He is a man of culture and experience in his profession. There are few better surgeons in Louisville than Dr. Borgman, and yet he is modest and unassuming. During his tenure of office he has made an able School Trustee, and so well has he acquitted himself that his constituents insisted on his re-nomination. Dr. Borgman knows what the city needs in the way of educational facilities, and he has never hesitated to assert the rights of the children and the taxpayers. He has never been niggardly in the expenditure of money when the occasion arose. For two years he has been one of the most prominent figures in the Louisville School Board, and now that he knows the ropes will be even more prominent during the two years to come.

EDWARD A. BARRY.

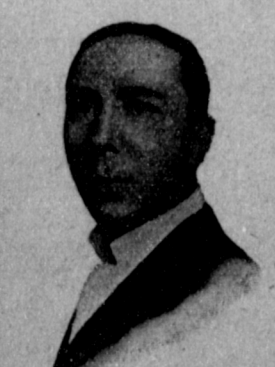

The people of Jefferson county need an able, active man as their Assessor. Such a man is Edward A. Barry, who has been tried in political circles, and who has never been found wanting. He is a Louisville boy, and is on the sunny side of forty. Ed Barry is all that any young American should be—capable, efficient and indefatigable where duty is concerned. He is an ironworker by trade. For five years he served in the Health office as one of the Sanitary Inspectors, and when he left Dr. M. K. Allen said he was the most competent inspector he had. Mr. Barry has made a study of affairs in Louisville and Jefferson county, and his election as County Assessor will be of great benefit to every taxpayer.

BEN J. SAND.

There are few branches of the municipal government as important as its legislative divisions, the two boards of the General Council. They are the home rule legislators of Louisville. Among the twenty-four Democratic nominees there is no able, no more aggressive man than Ben J. Sand. He is not only in thorough touch with the working classes, but he is highly regarded by merchants, manufacturers and professional men. He is an indefatigable worker and gifted with a volubility and endurance that would credit any statesman. When he has made up his mind on a certain question he never quits working or talking until his end is accomplished. By trade he is a cigarmaker and is President of Local Union No. 32. For fifteen years he has been prominent in local labor circles and is well and favorably known to the leaders of labor throughout the nation. While always an aggressive leader, he has never been styled an agitator, but strives for the greatest good to the greatest number. It is certain that Mr. Sand will be chosen President of the Council.

PETER J. COSGROVE.

One of Louisville's able young attorneys is Peter J. Cosgrove, who has been nominated by the Democratic party for Representative in the Forty-sixth Congress. Composed of the Second and Third wards, like most of the other candidates his education was received in local schools, and when quite a youth he obtained employment as clerk in the office of O'Neal & Phelps. He remained with the late Joseph T. O'Neal for many years and in the meantime studied law and began to practice in his own behalf. Steady, thorough, painstaking and devoid of fancy flourishes, Mr. Cosgrove is every inch a lawyer of the people. All his life has been spent among the people that have nominated him as their Representative in the Kentucky Legislature. He has never held a political office, but for the past fifteen years has been active in the councils of the Democratic party.

As a matter of fact there are no weak candidates on the Democratic ticket. Andrew M. Sea, Sr., is an old time citizen and a Confederate veteran. He is the Democratic nominee for City Treasurer. James P. Gregory, the nominee for Judge of the Criminal Division of the Circuit Court, is not untried. As a soldier, as County Judge and as private citizen he has always stood for what was right and fair. Where could you find a stauncher advocate of Kentucky's criminal laws than in Joseph M. Huffaker, the nominee for Commonwealth's Attorney and nominee for re-election? Harry W. Robinson, the nominee for Prosecuting Attorney of the Police Court, has been tireless in his efforts for the party during the campaign that is about to close. Then there is Adolph Schmitt, the nominee for City Auditor, a trained statistician and a young man who always minds his own business.

In the list of county nominees you will find John Russell Gaines, the candidate for County Surveyor, a young man who was for years on the civil engineering staff of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company. Orville J. Stivers is the nominee for Commissioner of County Schools. He is a successful farmer and school teacher.

In the list of Democratic nominees for the Kentucky House of Representatives are Luther C. Owens, a farmer and stock raiser of Jefferson county; John M. Lettelle, who has served the First ward of Louisville as its Representative for six terms; Hite Huffaker, an able young lawyer from the Sixth and Seventh wards; Thomas O'Connell, of the Pullman Palace Car Company, from the Eighth and Ninth wards, and H. Clay Hall, a barber and labor advocate, from the Tenth ward. These are the kind of people that count.

Where could one find a better or more capable set of candidates for Park Commissioners than Daniel F. Murphy, Louis Seelbach and John B. Castleman?

Among the candidates for Aldermen are Dr. John H. Buschmeyer, James Treacy, Dr. C. W. Schmitt, Henry A. Kremer, R. Guy Parker, J. William Miller, John M. Clifford, George Coder and William Ledigh. For the lower board of the General Council the nominees are from the First to the Twelfth wards: John Nehauser, William P. Graves, Charles Mann, Dr. C. G. Russmann, William M. Booher, Philip J. Pfeiffer, Ben Schulman, Jerome King, Thomas J. Garvey, J. A. Snyder, Frank Coblenz, Michael Leone, Thomas Lawrence, Samuel G. Tate, Samuel W. Greene, T. J. Morrow, Michael McDermott, D. B. Coleman, Randolph Thomas, Henry Wolff, Dr. C. F. Melton, Charles J. Finnegan, Ben J. Sand and Ben C. Watson. Excellence of material is offered for Magistrates. R. O. Dorsey in the First district, Charles C. Wheeler in the Second, H. D. Robb, S. S. Hollis, Ed Meglemery and Edward D. O'Connor are all well known in Democratic circles. Charles T. Osborne, J. W. Floore, H. D. Robb, Jr., M. Camp, Tony Stentkamp, Lew Roberts, Charles Ratterman and J. S. Fields are the offerings for Constables. Each is well known in his district.

Last, but by no means least are the candidates for School Trustee. The First ward puts up an educated gentleman in the person of James Ramsay. The Second and Third wards desire to send Joseph Piazza back. Dr. William Scarsers has been nominated by the Democrats of the Fourth and Fifth wards. Dr. Edelen is the nominee from the Eighth and Ninth and Henry Schimpeler from the Tenth ward.

PORTLAND CLUB

Prove Themselves Good Entertainers as Well as Players.

The Portland baseball club entertained last Saturday evening with a banquet at Bosler's Hotel, and marked the successful closing for this year of the best all around amateur team that has ever represented this city. Capt. Frank Reichert acted as toastmaster and his witty and happy allusion to the hit of the evening. Right here it can be said that Mr. Reichert has won a place in the heart of every amateur ball player of this city and their patrons, for mainly through his efforts amateur ball has been given a big impetus in this section. The players and fans alike hope to see him open the season in the near future in his official position as His Honor the Mayor in pitching the first ball over the plate.

Following were those present: Eddie Baker, John Weisenstein, Danny Lally, Fred Harper, Harry Lally, Howard Williams, Joe Deekin, George Boardman, Patrick Henry, Doherty, George Yantz, Empire "Babe" Ryan, Capt. On each of these days the church was filled to overflowing by members of the congregation and pilgrims from all over Louisville. All the visitors were accorded a welcome and the Rev. Dr. Revermann was well pleased with the outcome of the triduan celebration.

And Worse Are Afoot Against Catholic Irish of Ulster.

Orangelism Rampant in Stronghold of the Black North.

"Starve 'em Out" Measure Have Been Very Freely Adopted.

CASE OF WOMEN MILLWORKERS

The anti-Catholic movement is more rampant in certain parts of Ireland than it is in Kentucky, and Louisville is one of the last strongholds of the desperate Junior Order of American Mechanics, the orphan offspring of the A. P. A. movement.

At present the anti-Catholic movement in Ireland seems to center around Portadown. Not long ago the Dundalk Democrat recited the story of a woman mill worker who sought compensation for dismissal. The mill worker was attacked in the mill by an infuriated mob, armed with iron bars. The police escorted her to her home to protect her from the violence of the mob. The manager of the mill told her not to come back until she was sent for. She was not sent for and she and the proprietors in lieu of notice, she acts were admitted.

The company's defense was that the woman had not been dismissed, but the manager declined to say whether she would be safe if she attempted to return. He said he was powerless in the hands of 200 workers. The trial also brought out that all former Catholics employed save five had to leave the mill. These five had to give a guarantee to the Protestant workers that they would not attend mass. In the face of these facts a majority of the Magistrates trying the case dismissed the woman's claim. Continuing along the same line the Dundalk Democrat says:

"Since August 15 last, when a Catholic procession, unaccompanied by band or banner, went upon an excursion to Newry, a vigorous boycott of Catholics has been carried on here. Upon the eve of August 15 an organized mob of Orangemen mobilized from town and country, while taking possession of the town, continued the evening night disorganizing the Catholic residents, singing verses of 'Kick the Pope,' and this notwithstanding the presence in town of a large force of police under the command of Assistant Inspector-General Ball. Upon the morning of the fifteenth defenseless ladies were savagely assaulted when going to mass by an infuriated Orange mob, who knocked them down, kicked them and seized their prayer books flung them over the bridge that spans the River Ban.

Moreover a rigorous boycott of Catholics since then has been, through sheer violence, carried on. The form of boycott as practiced by Protestants in Portadown consists in assaulting Catholic workers with stones, sticks and iron bars in the public works; dismissing Catholic workmen without assigning any valid reason, whilst adopting a preconcerted line of action in refusing to enter the houses of Catholic traders. Cowardly waylaying, too, seems to be the order of the day in 'civilized' and 'Christian' Ireland. From the poor Catholic workman to the opulent shopkeeper is applied with unabated ferocity the Protestant weapon known as 'starve 'em out.' If anything similar occurred in the United Kingdom would team with harrowing details of the horrors inflicted upon the 'loyal' minority, who doubtless would invoke the powers of the Executive to crush such tyranny. Though the Executive takes effective steps to suppress cattle drives by imprisoning popular journalists, still they connive at Unionist firebrands who locally incite their followers to acts of violence against their Catholic fellow-citizens."

The editor of the Dundalk Democrat adds to this story of insolent warfare: "Let us not be accused of desiring to stir up sectarian strife in Ireland, but let the wiser and cooler heads among our Protestant neighbors in the East, West and South of Ireland consider the consequences of such a conflagration as the continued persecutions of Ulster may light."

THOUGHTFUL PRIEST.

There is a man in the city of Orange, N. J., who recently received a check for $1,000. He is the Rev. James H. Higgins, rector of the Church of the Most Blessed Saviour, at Fifty-sixth street and Chester avenue, who returned from a trip to Ireland to him and John E. Davis, Chairman of the committee in charge, presented to Father Higgins a check for $1,000, which had been contributed by his parishioners. Saying that he could not accept the gift until the needs of the parish were so great, Father Higgins returned it to the Chairman, with the request that it be returned to all who had contributed to it.

SENSIBLE VIEW.

William Muldoon, the professional athlete and trainer, declares that college athletics are all wrong, and that it is a wonder more young college men do not succumb to the strain. He says this strain is as bad for the mind as it is for the heart, as it withdraws vitality from the brain to other parts of the body—that athletics should be second, not first, in a college course. This sounds sensible—so sensible that it is somewhat odd that it is a professional athlete, not the college professors themselves, who are championing the superior claims of intellect over football and rowing teams.

HOW ABOUT GIBBS?

Bitter Enemy of Typographical Union On Republican Ticket.

In attacking the Democratic ticket this week the Evening Post tried to pick out men who were unopposed to organized labor and the Typographical Union in particular. They seem to forget J. D. Gibbs, candidate for Alderman on the Republican ticket, who is a member of the Gibbs-Inman non-union printing house, located at Ninth and Broadway, and bitter foe of the Typographical Union, not allowing a union man in their employ since the establishment of the firm in the old Armory building.

Furthermore, this same Gibbs sends out his cards and circulars without a union label, something never done before by any other candidate, showing the contempt he has for union labor. In raising the union labor question the Evening Post seems to have forgotten that there are several bitter enemies of unionism on the Republican ticket, and particularly one of their high officials, who is stockholder in the Central Kentucky coal mines, where soldiers were brought to shoot down the miners a year or two ago.

RECENT DEATHS.

Mrs. Maggie Ballard, aged twenty-nine years, died at the home of her mother, Mrs. Johanna Callahan, 1135 Dunes street, Sunday night at 11 o'clock. The funeral took place from St. William's church on Tuesday morning. The deceased was well beloved by all who knew her.

The funeral of Lawrence J. Schroeder, who died at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schroeder, 625 East Walnut street, on Friday night of last week, took place from St. Boniface church on Monday morning and was very elegantly attended. The deceased was only nineteen years old. Besides his parents he is survived by several brothers and sisters.

The funeral of William Corrigan, an aged member of St. Patrick's congregation, who died at the family residence, 210 South Fifteenth street, on Friday of last week, took place from St. Patrick's church on Monday morning. It was attended by many old friends of the family. He was a member of St. Patrick's Branch of the Catholic Knights of America, and perhaps its oldest member.

Daniel Monahan, for more than forty years a resident of that section of the city known as Limerick, succumbed to a stroke of paralysis at his home, 1320 Dunes street, early Sunday morning. For many years he had been a most crossing watchman for the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company. Two sons and two daughters survive him. He was a native of Ireland and past seventy years of age. To attain this speed the Delaware's engines were forced to develop 30,000 horse power, the highest ever made by a first class battleship.

SHOW US YOUR WORKS.

Critics of the Catholic church should reflect that in the midst of a civilization that is rapidly turning away from God she is standing impenetrably for the Christian religion and morality in education. She is standing against divorce. She is standing against atheistic socialism and anarchy. She is standing for authority in Church and State.

She is standing for God and the things of God against the devil and the things which he desires. "Show your works," cried the French infidels to Ozanam. Day after day, hour after hour, she is showing her works, and if men were not blind they would see her as she is—the one divine force of the age.
